Abel Warshawsky's portrait of the late George Marion, beloved actor, who spent the years of his retirement in Carmel, will be on exhibition in the Monterey artist's one man show, which opens at Gump's Galleries in San Francisco, January 15.

This, Warshawsky's sixth exhibition at Gump's, is the most diversified and comprehensive yet shown in the San Francisco Gallery. The thirty-three paintings range over a period of the last fifteen years and include works from France, Mexico and the United States. Nearly a third of the pictures are portraits, some painted in Brittany prior to the war, as well as recent ones such as the portrait of George Marion. "These reveal the artist's mastery of portraiture more fully than in any previous show we have had. Each year a new maturity and an amazingly new and poignant freshness are added to his work"—Lyon Mearson.

Council Wants To Stick Merchants For P. D. Expenses

Faced with the problem of raising money for the ever-increasing expenses of the police department, the mayor, at the meeting of the Carmel City Council Wednesday night, appointed the council as a committee of the whole to "equalize" the business license fees. (Increase them—see editorial column)

Other business at the meeting included the establishing a zone of interest so that Joe Olivero could circulate a petition that his property on Junipero and Sixth be reclassified from Zone C-1 to Zone C-2, making it possible for him to build a bus terminal.

The Council set a date for a public hearing, February 6, on the rezoning of Edward Kuster's playhouse from Zone R-1 to Zone C-1. They deferred action on the application of Carl Prussion for a permit to build a taxi office on the corner of Dolores and Sixth until the question of the legality of conducting a taxi business in that zone could be settled.

They voted to terminate the contract with John Roscelli for garbage collection in Carmel, effective in thirty days, without making provision for another collector.

There was discussion of establishing a new zone, a "twilight zone" called R-2; to take in club houses, churches—etc. No decision was reached.

Trustee Raps H S Health Program

Dr. L. A. Williams, at the School Board meeting Tuesday night, expressed the opinion that the epidemic of flu at the high school before Christmas might have been avoided had a proper health program been in practice.

There were murmurs from Superintendent Leo Harris, high school principal, and several school board members, about administrative problems that an adequate health program would involve. "Would you have a student sitting around waiting until after ten o'clock until the nurse can get here from Sunset to examine him, before he can go to classes?" Mr. Harris inquired.

Dr. Williams pointed out that any school business involves administrative problems, and it wouldn't hurt to start thinking, at least, about a health program that will make impossible a repetition of the condition in which a third of the high school student body was afflicted with influenza, so that school had to be closed down entirely.

The Japs Will Have A Democracy In Three Years—And A Better One Than Ours—Says Ex-Consul Chas. DeVault

BY PARKER KIMBALL

"If MacArthur's policies and procedures continue to have the support of Washington, London, and Moscow, Japan will adopt and adapt a democratic governmental policy copied from the American pattern, and within three years from this date, will have functioning a democracy which may put our own governmental processes and practices to shame!"

There would appear to be a heretic prophet somewhere in the woodpile, and it's time he was exposed. No heretic, but a prophet is the Hon. Charles L. DeVault, diplomat, scholar, international lawyer, one of America's outstanding radio analysts on world affairs, and for twenty-two years a United States Consul in five major world capitals. Recently retired from the service, subject to recall, he and Mrs. DeVault, who accompanied him on his assignments through the principal countries of the world, have just taken up their permanent residence in the home they purchased two years ago on Ladera Drive, overlooking Carmel Bay.

While disclaiming oracular endowments, Mr. DeVault nevertheless has made such predictions as the foregoing with much of the prolificacy of a sportscaster, but with far greater accuracy. Beginning with his predictions in 1927 of the inevitability of a war with Japan and the bombing of Pearl Harbor, Manila, and the Dutch East Indies, he kept right on foretelling such events as the collapse of France and Rommel's Egyptian defeat, and, eventually, wound up the war with the whole sixty-four dollars. Yet, he seldom feels that his neck is out very far. His contacts with statesmen, diplomats, and international businessmen and politicians, his continued access to both official and off-the-record information after twenty-two years in the diplomatic service in Paris, Tokyo, London, and other centers of diplomatic activity, have lifted his bets out of the realm of long shots.

Thus, if Mr. DeVault says that in three years the Japanese will be teaching us a lesson in efficient democracy, don't, at least, give any odds. Here's why.

"I base my conclusion upon the fact that the Japanese are an energetic, primitive, single-minded people, uninfluenced by luxuries or frivolous desires," says Mr. DeVault, "and that they will move with a complete singleness of purpose toward whatever goal they set for themselves." The average Japanese, he explains, leads a Spartan existence beginning with

Surveyors At Carmel River Mouth

A party of county surveyors was at work at the Carmel River Mouth this week, gathering data for a topographical map to be presented to the Planning Commission at its meeting in Salinas, January 28.

The map will be included among maps of other proposed recreational areas in the shore line acquisition project, which the Planning Commission members will send to Sacramento, along with their recommendation as to whether the river mouth should be acquired and remain a primitive area, or whether it should be improved into a park and playground project. The commission shall have to arrive at a decision at the meeting on January 28, Charles Vogel, secretary, said yesterday.

Surveys of the other proposed shoreline acquisitions have been made by the county. The Carmel River survey began last week, when John Lewis and his rod men, Sam Black and Kenneth Yokey, began working up the coast from Bay School to Inspiration Point on Carmel Point. They were working inland around the slough at the river mouth Tuesday.

No—The city council stuck its neck out a mile and a half at its meeting Wednesday night. It intends to "equalize" the tariff on business licenses. Merchants are making a lot more money these days says the city council, so they might as well pay a lot more for the privilege of doing business in Carmel. One councilman fatuously suggested that a raise is indicated on the strength of the police protection the business men receive. What police protection?

No one of us has enough fingers and toes to count up the petty thefts that have occurred this past year in Carmel, but a one armed man with two fingers missing could count up the yearly arrest record.

In any case, what gives anybody the idea the merchants receive more police protection than anyone else? Why should they, who are caught between rising wages and ceiling prices, who are expected to bear half the burden of federal social security, and over two thirds of the burden of state unemployment insurance, be submitted to another petty squeeze in the form of an increase in business license fees to provide more money for a department that serves not just them but all of the people—when it serves.

Yes—They are a volunteer group. They get nothing out of the time they (Continued on page Four)

By Tally-Ho To The Devil's Washtub; Early Resident Describes All Day Junket To Point Lobos Of The 1880's

By L. LUCILE TURNER

Old timers, old, old timers on the peninsula will remember changes that have taken place through the decades in Point Lobos, attraction for tourists—as well as for movie companies. When Carmel was just a ranch located in the forest between the mission and the Chinese fishing village over near Pebble Beach, the trip by horse-drawn vehicle—or perhaps by donkey—from Pacific Grove was an all day affair, with generous baskets of lunch stowed away under the seats, four-in-hands skirting the shore at spanking trot on the 17 mile drive—no golf courses then—on the morning trip out, and climbing less vigorously the long hill from Carmel river in late afternoon on the return by Carmel hill and through Monterey to the starting point.

Swank red and yellow tally-hoes from Hotel Del Monte—what sophisticated modern ever saw one?—carried the hotel's guests on these trips, announced with horn sounding over the hills; or perchance they went in their own private carriages with high stepping bays or blacks, complete with coachman and footman; but the great majority of visitors enjoyed with equal enthusiasm the services of the commercial stables—to the uninitiated, grandfather of present day prosaic taxi companies. Best of all was to be one of twenty-five or thirty paying passengers on the plebeian cousin of the tally-ho, a high black vehicle with five or six spring seats across its long body, each seat holding four or five persons according to size, up to which you climbed precariously over the five-foot wheels, or else ascended by means of tiny iron steps slung down from the wagon bed—know what that is?—between the wheels. And when the driver cracked his four-horse whip, you dodged for fear it would circle your neck or slip off your hat—it never did—and when you looked, the whip was tickling the ears of the front span of horses—the leaders—and they were speeding to get away from its sting.

You clung to your seat fearfully as the vehicle swayed, until you looked out at the sand, the rocks, the white foam and the blue waves along the 17 mile drive, gaped at the sporting sealions or glimpsed a deer among the trees, gasped in the brisk sea wind, for your tally-ho-by-courtesy had no sides or top, nothing to shut you (Continued on page Six)

Victory Clothing Headquarters' Tent Set Up On 6th St.

"Wonderful stuff — even fur coats" came pouring in with the start of the Victory Clothing Collection here this week, Post Master Ernest Bixler, Carmel chairman, reported.

The Carmel Lions Club is local sponsor for the drive.

The Army tent receiving station was set up Wednesday on Sixth Street on the lot between the library and the Bus station, as the post office lot was unavailable.

Aside from the disappointment of not being able to use the post office lot for the receiving depot, the machinery of the collection is going smoothly, Bixler says. When the drive committee meeting broke up Saturday, there was still one big, unsolved problem, where to store clothing for packing.

"But as the committee was leaving the post office, Walt Pilot was spotted and volunteered the use of the warehouse at Sixth and Junipero as soon as the storage company moves out," Bixler said. "Then, in response to the request in the Pine Cone for donated storage space, Mrs. F. A. Greatwood, at Junipero and Third, offered her garage to be used until Walt's quarters are available."

Mrs. Howard Clark has arranged for the attendants at the tent, where the big box is crowding the sidewalk on Sixth Street, which George Knapp donated with the good will of M. J. Murphy, Inc. There is a sign on the box, "Leave Clothing here."

"I am greatly encouraged with the cooperation given by those who have helped organize this drive," Bixler concluded. "Now let's see Carmel bring on the clothes for those who have volunteered to sort and pack and make them ready for shipment to the kids who are freezing in Europe."

Robert E. Lee

Robert E. Lee, 33, Carmel Valley, only recently named manager of the A.D.H. store in Carmel, died last week at the Monterey Hospital after a brief illness. He had been discharged from the Army in November.

A native of Berkeley, he had also lived at Salinas, attending high school and junior college there. Surviving is his widow, Mrs. Beth Marie Lee of Robles del Rio. Funeral services were held Saturday at Salinas.

Mrs. Anna Bowen

Funeral services were held in San Jose last Friday for Mrs. Anna Orene Bowen, widow of the late Edward Bowen, who died here January 9, after several months of illness.

She was 65 years old, a native of Boston, and came here six months ago to make her home. She is survived by her sister, Mrs. Ashton D. Clark of Palm Springs.

The present Cliff House in San Francisco is the third in 82 years on the same site.

SPORTING NOTES...

By FRANCIS SHEA
Game tonight, Carmel vs. Gilroy, at Gilroy, 8:45 p.m.

The Carmel Padre hoopers emerged victorious from their first league game of the season, Wednesday night, trouncing a Gonzales quintet 27-17. The Padres gained an early lead and quickly showed their mastery of the situation, and, although the Carmelites' play began to get a trifle sloppy toward the end of the contest, their superiority was never seriously threatened.

The starting line-up for the local team was: Bill Gargiulo and Tom Hefling, guards; Martin Irwin, center; Art Templeman and Clayton Neill, forwards.

The Carmel lightweights did not fare so well, dropping a speedy and exciting game, 26-25, to their opponents. Although trailing at the start of the last quarter, the Gonzales cagers finished strong to cop the game.

Mrs. Ira Miller

Mrs. Ira Miller, 89, mother of Mrs. Kent W. Clark, died Thursday morning at the home of her son, Preston Miller, in Canaan, N. H., after an illness of more than a year.

Born in Hartford, Conn., she was brought up in the midst of some of the greatest personages in American history. She lived across the street from Harriett Beecher Stowe, around the corner from Mark Twain, and on the same street as Henry Ward Beecher, and William Gillette. Memories of those contacts remained fresh, and she had many interesting stories to tell.

At the age of three she was stricken with infantile paralysis, and though it left her lame for the rest of her life, it did not prevent her from travelling throughout the world and failed to hamper an active life. Mrs. Miller attended Miss Porter's School at Farmington, Conn., when Miss Porter was still in charge.

For more than fifteen years Mrs. Miller was a familiar visitor to Carmel, staying here many months at a time. She attended the Episcopal church here and was seen frequently at the League of Women Voters and the Woman's club. In June, 1942, she left Carmel for the last time, returning to the east.

Survivors, in addition to Mrs. Clark, include three sons, Preston Miller of Canaan, N.H., Dr. James Miller of Hartford, Conn., and Dr. Charles B. Miller, New York, N.Y. There are eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

WAYFARER MEETING

Miss Irene Alexander, speaker at the meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer, Tuesday afternoon, discussed the changed attitude of the returning service men, indicating an advance to a broader social outlook and racial tolerance as a result of their war experience.

Preceding Miss Alexander's talk, which was much enjoyed by the members of the auxiliary, Mrs. Grace Howden, program chairman, presented Mr. Carl Bensberg, who sang a group of religious songs, with Mr. Noel Sullivan as accompanist. His selections were "Fear Not Ye, O Israel, by Buck; My Soul is Athirst for God, by Stiekel; Ave Maria, adapted as an intermezzo from Cavalleria Rusticana; and Panis Angelicus, by Cesar Franck. The program was greatly appreciated by the audience.

A group of auxiliary workers met at 10:30 to make bandages for lepers, and others came at 12:30 for the box luncheon which preceded the regular meeting. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Fenton Grigsby, Mrs. D. E. Nixon conducted the meeting. A joint meeting of the North and South Circles was announced for January 21 at the manse. —L.L.T.

LAIOLIS, NEW RESIDENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Laiolo have bought the R. B. Stoney house on Mission Street with the intent of establishing a locksmithing, radio and electrical repair business, and making their permanent home here. For the past three years, Mr. Laiolo has been serving in the Signal Corps, U. S. Army, Specialist Corps, as a marine engineer, stationed at Fort Mason. Previous to his service with the army, he was in the radio, electrical business in San Francisco for twenty years.

Above figures are derived from Building Inspector Floyd Adams' annual report to the city council.

Mrs. Ella Rigney

By DAISY B. TAYLOR

Mrs. Ella Rigney passed away December 22, at the home of her niece, Mrs. George Farry, in San Jose.

Mrs. Rigney was one of the early residents of Carmel. She assisted Mr. Devendorf in the real estate office of the Carmel Development Company and often helped out in the office at the Pine Inn. One of her greatest pleasures was showing visitors the village and surrounding country. Her ardent love for Carmel was often contagious, for through her efforts many remained to establish homes. She was one of the first to build on the north of the canyon, living first on the corner of Lincoln and Third. Later she built her home near the Mary A. Austin house, now known as Singing Winds, owned by the Alfred Parks. Mrs. Rigney knew Mary Austin as a neighbor and often entertained her friends by reminiscences of the early life in Carmel.

Some of the beautiful trees on the north side of town are monuments to her vigilance and determination to protect the woods. She extinguished fires unaided. When loitering boys came with axes, they were firmly and quickly told to leave. Gus Englund, the first policeman, called Mrs. Rigney the Mayor of the North Side.

She was a woman of strong opinions and of great human sympathy. She loved life and had a wide experience in traveling, living in Cripple Creek, Colorado, during the gold rush days, spending some time at Nome, Alaska, in the "boom days." Later, she made frequent trips to Panama, always returning to her beloved Carmel, where the natural beauty and quiet was a solace and comfort to her.

Failing health made it necessary for her to leave Carmel a few years ago. For a time she lived in Ontario, California, at the home of her niece, Mrs. Roberta Tansey. Then she came north to San Jose with her nieces, Mrs. Ruby Rathburn and Mrs. George Farry, at whose home she was cared for during a long illness.

We who enjoy our life here owe much to the early pioneers like Mrs. Rigney, whose courage and vigilance guarded the natural beauty of our village.

March of Dimes Starts On Monday; Committee Named

The familiar and always welcome Wishing Wells will appear on counters of Carmel stores and bars this week end, Postmaster Ernest Bixler, chairman of the March of Dimes Committee, said yesterday. The drive to raise funds by the dime load for prevention and treatment of infantile paralysis starts Monday and continues until January 31, the anniversary of late President Roosevelt's birthday.

Assisting Mr. Bixler in managing the drive will be his committee made up of School Superintendent Leo Harris, William Satchell and Col. William R. Henry.

This year it is especially important that a generous amount be contributed to the drive. "More than 13,000 men, women and children in the United States were victims of infantile paralysis in 1945, making it the fourth highest year on record, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis reports," Bixler said.

"Last year the National Foundation disbursed over $1,000,000.00 in emergency aid to epidemic areas, in addition to that spent by local chapters, each of which retains one half of all contributions to the March of Dimes for the care and treatment of polio patients."

EVANS APPOINTED

Father Will Receive Posthumous Award For William Smith

A Silver Star, awarded to the late Sergeant William A. Smith by General Jonathan Wainwright for bravery on Bataan, will be presented posthumously during ceremonies at the USO, 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Commander C. M. Bertholf, USN, Twelfth Naval District, will be down from San Francisco to make the award to the marine hero's father, C. M. "Pop" Smith, one day after the twenty-eighth anniversary of Sergeant Smith's birth. A marine since he was 18, Sergeant Smith was given this recognition for outstanding bravery in the Pucot Hill fighting on Bataan.

He and a buddy volunteered to go forward and wipe out a Jap machine gun nest, but his fellow marine was killed, leaving the job up to him. His sub-machine was put out of action, but he placed his two grenades properly to wipe out the enemy position. Then weaponless, he directed the troops from his forward position.

The sergeant met his death in the sinking of a Jap prison ship on which he was being transferred from the Philippines to Japan in October, 1944.

Clevenger-Rowntree To Take Quarrel To Court In February

Sometime in February the court will attempt to settle a dispute about the partnership affairs of Lester Rowntree and Eliza Clevenger, who have been house mates and business associates in the Carmel Highlands since the early nineteen twenties.

Mrs. Rowntree, through her attorney, Webster Street, filed suit against Miss Clevenger for an accounting of her partnership affairs in joint interest, last May. Among other things are involved a house that Mrs. Rowntree says she built on land owned by Miss Clevenger, which she wants put in trust, and money in escrow with the Coast County Land and Title Company.

Miss Clevenger, through her attorney, John Milton Thompson, has filed cross complaint.

WANTA NEW STREET?

For a cost of twenty-five cents a front foot, $10.00 per forty foot lot, Carmel property owners can have their streets oiled and gravelled, Charlie Childers, Street Commissioner, announced at the council meeting Wednesday night.

The Street Department provides the labor, the property owners the cost of materials. Tenth and Eleventh Streets are especially in need of work. Interested property owners should get in touch with City Clerk Peter Mawdsley for further information.

The case was set for trial in Salinas on January 22, but this week Mr. Street asked for a continuance until February, as Mrs. Rowntree, who is a botanist, is absent on a field trip in the southern part of the state.

give to the protection of the community but the satisfaction of knowing that they are doing a good job, as good a job as a fully paid organization could do. So if there is any small thing the community can do to make them happy, the community rallies around with enthusiasm, glad for an opportunity to show its appreciation to the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department. That is the way it has always been in the past, consequently Frank Hefling, fire commissioner, with justifiable confidence, announced to The Pine Cone this week that "the boys" need a radio phonograph down at the fire house, and he, the mayor and the city clerk will accept cash contributions from Carmel citizens.

Hefling says $500 would buy a very fine instrument, with money left over to start a good record collection. He says that for three years the firemen have foregone the show that they used to put on every year to raise money to buy the things they need for their club room, so if the people who have always cheerfully bought tickets to the Firemen's Benefit will do a little mental arithmetic, multiplying what they used to pay for a brace of tickets by three, and then call on the mayor, himself, or the city clerk, whichever they like best, with cash in hand, raising the $500 should be one of the easiest things ever undertaken in this community.

Especially interested will be every Carmel property owner who lives out of town, who opens a Carmel cottage for a few months in the summer, then locks it up to go away in the Fall knowing that it is well protected because an unpaid group of Carmel men make it their responsibility to see that Carmel has the best fire protection possible. These out-of-towners, who benefit so greatly from the thought and care of their Carmel neighbors, are fortunate in having this opportunity to show that they are appreciative.

Checks should be made out to The Carmel Fire Department and mailed to Peter Mawdsley, City Clerk; or Mayor P. A. McCreery, or Fire Commissioner Frank Hefling.

It can be a generous check, and the writer will still be money ahead when he figures what he pays now for fire insurance, and what his insurance rate would be if he didn't have the services of the volunteer fire department. —Wilma Cook.

MAC Presents Ord Violinist, Pianist In Sunday Concert

The Musical Art Club has announced completion of its plans and details of program to be presented on Sunday afternoon, January 13, at 3 p.m., in the Carmel High School Music Room. The first recital of the 1946 season will feature two young artists of outstanding talent, Walter Legawiec, violinist, and Winston McQuiddy, pianist and accompanist, who, during their tour of duty at Fort Ord, have become well known to many music lovers of the Peninsula.

Walter Legawiec's early instruction on the violin came from his father and Arthur Fox. At eleven years of age he began to compose and at nineteen he was playing with the Providence Symphony Orchestra, both as soloist and as conductor of his own compositions. He has also played with the New England Philharmonic Orchestra and the New England Opera Association Orchestra. He was awarded the Abram Axelrod Scholarship, and spent two seasons at Tanglewood playing under Serge Koussevitsky. He conducted the Nickerson House Little Symphony and the Symphony Choir of Rhode Island, and has given many recitals in the East. He has studied under Joseph Leibovici, member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and is at present studying composition and orchestration with Gregor Fitelberg, formerly conductor of the Warsaw Philharmonic. During Mr. Legawiec's Army service he has written for and played in five Bond Cavalcades and also toured with two Army shows.

Winston McQuiddy at the age of fourteen years was awarded the Florida State Competition Award for Piano. At seventeen he was chosen accompanist for the Joseph P. Maddy choral group at Interlachen, Michigan. In 1939 he received the Stetson University Scholarship, and has since appeared at many recitals. Since his entry into the service he has been subject to call for appearance in Army shows, USO programs and various canteens. He has studied piano under Graham and Duckwitz, and composition under Gove and Buxton.

The program, which features original compositions by Mr. Legawiec, some of which were inspired by his experiences in Carmel, follows:

Sonata in A Major, Franck; "From Carmel", Legawiec—Walter Legawiec, violinist, Winston McQuiddy, accompanist.

Rhapsody in C Major, Dohnanyi; Mazurka No. 2 F sharp Minor, Legawiec; Mazurka No. 3 B Minor, Legawiec—Winston McQuiddy, pianist.

Nigun, Bloch; Tambourin Chinois, Kreisler; Chante de Roxane, Szymanowski; Slavonic Dance No. 3, Legawiec—Walter Legawiec, violinist, Winston McQuiddy, accompanist.

The concert will be open to members of the Club, their house guests and other guests presenting guest cards.

Lions Organize Basketball Team To Play Monterey

The date isn't set but it will be a big day when the Carmel Lions get their basketball team organized and play the Monterey Lions in accordance with a challenge laid down Tuesday night by the over-the-hill club through Leonard Abinante.

Abinante, in delivering the challenge at the Lions' dinner meeting, said that he was "just kidding" when, at a meeting of the Monterey Lions he announced that the Carmel Lions were organizing a basketball team and were about to challenge the Monterey club. The Monterey Lions, however, took him seriously, and "went for the idea in a big way," organizing a team and instructing Abinante to get over here and beat the Carmel Lions to the draw with a challenge. So here he was. The Carmel Lions not only responded enthusiastically, president Bob O'Brien delegating Joseph H. Gledhill to see if he could find five Carmel Lions under 75 years of age, and weighing less than 250 pounds to form a team, but scornfully rejected Abinante's suggestion that the game be played in three minute quarters, insisting on the regulation length of playing periods.

Speaker for the evening was Post Master Ernest Bixler, reporting on the progress of plans for the Victory Clothing Drive, which the club is sponsoring locally.

CTC Classes Start; "Little Women" Next Offering at Sunset

Spring classes in speech and acting, as offered by the Children's Theatre Center under the direction of Edith Stebbins, begin next week. Registration for classes is Saturday, January 12 between 10 a.m. and 12 at the Girl Scout House.

Members of the intermediate and advanced classes, last seen in their December performance of Everyman, will continue their training until April, when it is planned that a rehearsal and production period will follow for them and for talented and interested members of the beginning classes. Only two beginning classes will be offered this season, one to members of the Fifth and Sixth grades, and one to members of the Seventh, Eighth and high school.

The Executive Council of the Children's Theatre Center have sponsored two entertainments for children to date, the Walter Scott Marionettes, and the local production of Everyman. A production of Little Women, by the Palo Alto Children's Theatre, is the next offering for all ages of children, on Saturday afternoon, February 2, at the Sunset School.

By late Spring the Executive Council hope to sponsor one or two performances in the Forest Theatre by the members of the Children's Center.

The community's children and parents have expressed great appreciation of the Executive Council's generous and voluntary efforts to bring in and sponsor worthwhile and pleasing entertainment for children.

Putnam and Raggett Buy Meagher and Co. Dry Goods Store

Frank Putnam of Palo Alto and Mark Raggett of San Mateo announced this week their purchase of the Meagher and Company dry goods store on Ocean Avenue, to be known henceforth as Putnam and Raggett.

Both men have been long familiar with Carmel, visiting it regularly since 1928. For the past five years Mr. Putnam has been in Army uniform, attaining the rank of lieutenant colonel before leaving the service this winter. While he was stationed with the Eleventh Cavalry at the Monterey Presidio in 1940, his wife and family lived in Carmel. He stayed with the Eleventh Cavalry when it became a part of the Tenth Armored Division and fought under General Patton.

For the past ten years Mr. Raggett has been in the dry goods business. His wife, the former Hope Thomas, taught grade school in Carmel during the late 1930's.

The men are bringing their families and will settle in Carmel. Each has two children.

away from nature's out-of-doors. And did you love it, if you were an adventurous soul? Or if not you tried to sit in the middle, where the danger was less alarming, and where, too, it was not so cold. You chose a sunny day for your trip, for umbrellas don't comport themselves well on such a ride, and the rain from your umbrella might run down your neighbor's neck, or from hers down your neck.

One of the huge, long barns—they had to be huge to house a dozen vehicles and hold hay and grain for thirty horses, to say nothing of stalls for the horses and space for harnesses and saddles—one such establishment sat beside the road from Monterey to Pacific Grove in the mid 1880's, and was still there in the memory of some present Carmelites, with its sign along the ridge pole in letters a foot high—Heggely; perhaps the spelling isn't quite correct, there may have been one g or two l's. Many people privately called him Higgleddy-Piggleddy. Anyway, Mr. Heggely's was the original, honest-to-goodness rubber-neck wagon—ever hear of one?—which gave tourists to the peninsula the true scientific history of all the wonders of the shore, and finally the culmination of information and discovery at the high spot on the trip, Point Lobos.

Visitors to Point Lobos during the last four decades have missed its greatest feature, for that is no longer there. That is not to belittle the region, its breath-taking beauty and its rugged wonders. The mighty storms and battering waves have changed the contours of the less rugged parts of the point, and the Devil's Washtub, with its whirlpool current, thundering underground cave and hissing fountain at high tide, has been obliterated. Just beyond the long granite fingers pushing boldly into the sea is a quieter cove washed back into the softer geologic formation, and here the King of evil spirits used to do his laundry.

I have never seen it, but when my mother and eldest brother first visited the peninsula in 1888, the business was flourishing. And like his Irish forbears, Mr. Heggely was never at a loss for an explanation. As the waves at high tide rolled into the narrowing cove they gained force from the low, confining cliffs; they pushed into a cave undermining the rock, found dered back some fifty feet, found a small outlet through the broken formation and shot high in air in a brilliant momentary geyser. Receding and oncoming wave struggled in the cove in wild whirlpools of foam and green water. And Heggely, having just finished explaining to his passengers how Lobos was formed, waved his arm toward the cliffs and tumbling ocean and concluded, "and there was a great conglomeration of nature and it all split a-thunder!"

On January 5, 1603, Sebastian Vizcaino sighted the extreme southwest point of the present San Mateo County and named it Punta del Ano Nuevo (New Year's Point).

Days Before Yesterday

BY BETTY HASKELL

Men must have been scarce around Carmel back around, 1920, judging by the January 29 issue of the Pine Cone. Two items appeared in a casual column headed, Boosts and Knocks: "Four of our eligible young men, 'tis rumored, are planning to leave Carmel before long. Two of them will go to Honolulu, and from there proceed to another of the Pacific Islands to seek their fortunes. The other two plan to reach New Orleans in time for the Mardi Gras. Seems like a mean trick for these young fellows to quit Carmel when there are so many young ladies awaiting a chance to settle down. Probably the young men are afraid they'd have to settle up. Wonder if their departure has anything to do with it being Leap Year.

"And there is still another of the community scheduled to leave Carmel within two weeks. Any person of the female persuasion between 20 and 45 who has sufficient money saved so that two can live comfortably in this city might prevent his departure. Inquire at Pine Cone office."

The next week Boosts and Knocks commented: "The small number of inquiries regarding the young man seeking his fortune in Carmel, as mentioned exclusively in this column last week, is somewhat surprising. However, the inquiries as to who the four young men were who were to seek their fortunes outside Carmel literally flooded the office. Probably the fair sex got the items mixed, as no mention was made as to inquiries concerning the four. Looks as if a fellow is more popular when there is no money involved in the transaction."

There was one response to the money-minded young man, which was printed on page one of that issue: "... my attention was attracted to the free advertisement of the young (?) man seeking a mate. Merrily, 'tis true, with the touch of spring the heart doth run free. Or is it that with the thought of work the whole system freezes up?

"I would suggest that you publish a picture of the gentleman in next week's paper, along with his age, history, good points, weaknesses, disposition, house training, wood cutting ability, etc.

"Possibly, if he proved to be an all-round handy man, one of us girls might consider him as a mere husband—sometimes they are rather convenient, you know.

"However, I would warn him that the United States government is about to launch a vigorous campaign against profiteering. Yours in hopes, Lonely Maid." Editor Overstreet's only comment to this was the cryptic remark, "He stands without hitching."

Other items of interest around Carmel in January, 1920, have an oddly familiar ring: "School attendance here has been much below normal during the past two weeks. Parents should be careful not to keep children out unless absolutely necessary, as the school revenue depends upon attendance."

It wasn't quite as damp a year, though: "The mushrooms and roadstools are much in evidence hereabout. Early last Sunday morning the long desired rain began and continued at intervals all day Sunday and Monday. The fall for the season to date is short about eight inches as compared with last year."

With no theatrical performances, other than the movie, Virtuous Men, which was scheduled for April 20, Carmelites anticipated the annual Manzanita Club Masquerade. "For ten years," reads the account in the February 19 issue, "This affair has been the big social event of the town, and last Saturday night realized a splendid recurrence of former good times."

There were many striking and unique costumes, and the ages of the participants varied from eight to eighty (nearly).

A pleasing feature of the evening was the Clown Dance, under the direction of Miss Grace Wickham, who was assisted by Irene Goold.

And all the birds and trees
Could not have heard
Our quiet footsteps or this word*

*Of disbelief. The valley
Was so small a single hand
Could hold the river in its palm,
Smooth down the yellow grass, calm*

*All the hurry of the tiny town.
Among the high smooth mountain rocks
Bright flowers grew along
The clouds. The song*

*Of every insect in the sky
Was loud and close.
The only clearer sound
Was our hearts beating on the ground*

*Trembling, I think,
With fear the mind would soon forget
The path and sun and warm queer Certainly the stars were near.*

—MAGARET GROTE.

TIGER LILIES

*I looked whole on sorrow, wrong and shame,
Man and his ways were heavy in my eyes,
Then I saw beauty, bare, shining, aflame,
Today in a green well where redwoods rise.*

*I bless my sight now I have held a brook,
Shut in a hill by brush and shrub and tree,
In a quick vision, in a startled look,
Uncertain that I saw reality.
I caught my breath in wonder, to the thrill
Of a sudden, indefinable bliss,
A splashing in a cleft held me quite still,
A shock, a riot, a march of lilies,*

*Taller than queens, regal on ferny thrones,
Slim, tawny, flaring, blazed upon my sight
With the stunning force of unexpected suns;
Never was a more humble satellite.*

—ALEX R. SCHMIDT.

TO A SINGING SPARROW

*I was not ready for you, little songster.
What was there in that tiny wisp of music
To bring new faith — and tears, and end of pain?
That moment's hymn of joy, so true and tranquil,
So blest and sure, in a world so wide and terrible!*

—CHARLES BALLARD.

IGNORANCE

*Ignorance seeps through human lives
Like a rainfall of poisoned water.
How can the flowers of truth
Bloom in the meadow of the mind?
How can the trees of righteousness
Shade the woodland of the soul?*

—LUCIA TRENT.

Have You Read . . . ?

Have you read? a new book that you feel is so good that you want your friends and neighbors to share with you the pleasure or information you derived from it? Or an old book that is dear to you . . . or a group of fine books on a special subject. Write 600 words about it for this column.

BY L. A. WILLIAMS

Very recently accessioned to our public library is a book that may not receive the attention which is its due, largely because of its generalized title, The Springfield Plan. Published by the Viking Press in 1945, the volume of only 137 pages has several unique features and deserves a couple of hours of anyone's time.

Practically half the book is given to full page pictures with often less than a full page of text set on the opposite page. This text is straightforward description, explanation or comment on the picture with which it belongs. The photography is excellent and the type unusual but very easy to read. There is no attempt in the text to be erudite, to defend anything or to convert anyone to The Springfield Plan.

The title is a misnomer, because there actually is no preconceived and prepared plan but only a very general concept, theory, or philosophy, call it what one will. Under the leadership of the Superintendent of Schools, the teachers and many lay citizens came to an agreement that lip-service to the principles of democracy is not enough in this modern world. What is needed, these citizens agreed, is to start at once upon an effort to put the principles to work up and down the street every day. How Springfield (Massachusetts) has been working at the problems of practical democracy, through the direction of its schools, makes up the material for the book.

There is no claim made that what Springfield has done is the way for all cities, or for any other city to do. If the experience of this city as told in the book proves to offer suggestions to any other community, that is enough justification for publication. Of one thing the sponsors of this plan appear to be dead sure, namely, unless we practice democracy more and theorize about it less we shall soon find that the American Dream is only a dream, perhaps a nightmare.

While those belonging to the teaching profession will find the volume particularly stimulating and provocative there is also a place for the book in the reading of anyone interested in political, social, religious problems and issues of our twentieth century United States. The point of view which Springfield is putting into practice is as old as Socrates; the statement of it is preserved in the Mayflower Compact; the practice of it is as new and as startling in results as the atomic bomb.

As far as the educational-theory aspects of the practices are concerned there is a noticeable flavor of so-called Progressive Education to be found. On the other hand there is so much of old-fashioned traditionalism evident that the most ultra-conservative will find much with which to agree. The initial startling effects produced by reading about some of the practices stem primarily from the fact that the practices are presently unconventional and not because they are violations of our much-vaunted principles of education, government, or sociology. They are inevitable practices if we really mean that democracy implies universal equality of opportunity.

What this city has done and is doing may well be a tribute to the vision, the practicality and the personal magnetism of its Superintendent of Schools. It is no less an illustration of the force which a community can make of its schools in the process of breaking down prejudices, building up mutual confidence and respect, utilizing pressure group organization and power to make the general welfare a living reality and not merely a phrase in the Preamble to our Constitution.

Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society Finds Rare Flicker On Field Trip

The Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society members reported seeing a yellow-shafted flicker, a rare species on the Peninsula, on their field trip in Pacific Grove Sunday morning.

The yellow-shafted flicker differs from the red-shafted, an abundant resident species, in that its wings and tail linings are yellow instead of red. It was seen on the Pacific Grove Golf Course, at close range, perched and then in flight. Last report was over a year ago when it was seen at Laguna Del Rey, Monterey.

The field trip, under the direction of the Audubon Society president, Ferdinand Ruth, in the absence of Laidlaw Williams, technical advisor, covered the Pacific Grove shore line from the beach to the Hopkins Marine Station, the members observing 41 species. A smaller group continued the walk to the Pacific Grove Golf Course, finding eleven more species, including the yellow-shafted flicker.

Meeting at the Pacific Grove Museum, the group got its list well started with observations in the park, where pleasant weather had brought out Western Blue Birds, robins, Audubon Warblers, white-crowned sparrows, Oregon Juncos and a black phoebe to feed.

In an oak tree a block farther along the route, several black-crowned night herons were found, taking their day-time rest in preparation for their evening sally for food. The members had an excellent opportunity to observe the chunky heron, which stands about two feet high on short, stout yellow legs. It is black-backed, pale gray below, with grey wings, light face and black cap from which rises and extends backwards, at this season, a single, long, black feather, the breeding plumage of the species.

Along the water front all three species of cormorants, red-throated and Pacific loons, red-breasted and American mergansers and a number of other water birds were seen, among them six of the eight species of gulls that are found on the Peninsula at this time of year: the herring, California ring-billed, glaucous-winged, short-billed and western. The Heermann's gull, a dark-bodied, dark-winged gull with white head, red-bill and black feet, the most common gull found feeding along the water's edge at Carmel Beach at the present time, was not in evidence along the rocky Pacific Grove shore.

The next meeting of the Audubon Society will be a business and social session on January 19, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Bruce Firstman, 940 Forest Ave., Pacific Grove.

GREEN LANTERN FIRE

Dust, ignited in a gas floor heater at the Green Lantern, Casanova and Seventh Streets, last Friday night, was the cause of a fire which was extinguished almost immediately.

The Carmel Fire Department, answering the call at 9:40 p.m., reported no damage was caused. Robert Weaver owns the apartment court.

The Japs Will Have A Democracy In Three Years

the fundamental unit, the home, which is devoid of comforts as known to Western civilization. Nothing therein is conducive to "taking it easy". He has no stoves, no beds, no chairs, and desires none. Work or war is his relaxation. As the member of a nation of near-teetotalers, aside from the relatively small amount of sake he consumes occasionally, he finds little comfort in the pleasures of a night club. Mr. Moto has very little sense of humor, a great serious intensity, and consequently does not know how to play.

Unparalleled copyists, it was scarcely ninety years following Commodore Perry's impact upon Japan's social and economic life until the Nipponese had mimed Western manners and dress, and successfully duplicated industrial and commercial processes. According to Mr. DeVault the present Mitsubishis, Mitsuis, and Okuras (Japan's Schneider-Creusots and Du Ponts), are descendants of the original envoys to the United States who looked, saw, and scurried back to their locked islands before they'd remained here six months, to start reproducing railroads, steel mills, shipyards, and arsenals — planning how to repay their teachers with a vengeance. In like manner will the Japanese use our blueprint for democracy, thinks Mr. DeVault, unless MacArthur unfortunately is hobbled by the Far Eastern Control Commission or carping critics at home.

Although their literacy quotient is the world's highest — 97½ per cent — and although they have many fine universities, technological schools, and compulsory education, and two newspapers, the Tokyo "Nichi Vichi" and the Osaka "Mainichi" of over 2,000,000 daily circulation each, Mr. DeVault believes that they are still fundamentally primitive in their lives. "Because of this," he reiterated, "I believe they'll attack the problem with such single-minded directness, and with such a total lack of the loud-voiced, often irresponsible dissidence of press, public, and pressure groups frequently entangling our own democratic machinery, that they will make a success of it."

"This does not mean that I am at all pro-Japanese," he added. "On the contrary, I am intensely anti-Japanese in every way."

MacArthur's handling of the Japanese occupation Mr. DeVault indorsed unreservedly. "In my opinion," he said, "MacArthur has produced the outstanding military strategy and administrative statesmanship of the war. In my judgment, no other officer or official, American or Allied, has shown the superior all-around ability of MacArthur. He is unpopular in many circles because of inter-service jealousies, and with elements of the public because of what in theatre circles would be called 'ham'. Yet, it is partly this very quality which makes him so successful in handling the Japanese. If he sometimes plays the role somewhat theatrically, it is done purposely because he knows the Japanese psychology as he does. Certainly, as conqueror of Nippon, it is expected of him, and lends much additional weight to his commands."

During nine years spent in Tokyo and other part of Japan, Mr. DeVault moved intimately in both the best and worst of society, numbering among his associates in the latter category many of the present inmates of the war criminal gaol. — Premier Hideki Tojo, "Toad" Toyama, (the Grand Old Man of the Black Dragon Society), Gen. Sadao Iraki, head of the Black Dragon Society, Admiral Yamamoto, and General Yamashita.

Seven or eight times, he and Mrs. DeVault were Hirohito's guests at garden parties and receptions. He knew well two of the Emperor's brothers, the Princes Chichibu and Takamatsu, and particularly well, the venerable Prince Iyesato Tokugawa, for thirty years president of the House of Peers, who presented Mrs. DeVault with two heavy silver trays profusely engraved and bearing the three-clover-leaf family crest of the Tokugawas. The Japanese government bestowed upon Mr. DeVault a silver mounted walking stick carved from a branch of the camphor tree beneath which Commodore Perry dictated his first treaty with Japan.

Mrs. DeVault, in her station as wife of the United States Consul to Tokyo, came in for her share of recognition in being one of four Americans including Ambassador William Cameron Forbes and Charles Lindbergh, chosen to sit for bronze busts in commemoration of distinguished services. Aside from her variety of duties as hostess of the Consulate, she found time to design the interior of the Yokohama Consulate building, built by her husband and known as the best and largest American consular building in the world. Also she designed the consular establishment which was erected by Mr. DeVault in Taihoku, capital city of Formosa. It was in the Yokohama consulate building in 1933 that Mrs. DeVault and several other women were locked by her husband in the building's safety vault when 1000 rioting Japanese marched on the consulate. Fortunately, Mr. DeVault was able to seize and hold as hostage, under the threat of death the Chief of the Yokohama

Virginia Nielson, Former T. I. Hostess, Garden Club Speaker

By FLORA HARTWELL,
Garden Section Chairman

Mrs. Virginia Nielson will be the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Garden Section of the Carmel Woman's Club on Friday, January 18, at 2 o'clock at the Carmel U.S.O., Eighth and Dolores Streets.

Mrs. Nielson will speak on the basic principles of flower arrangement and will demonstrate their application. The speaker has generously offered the arrangements and containers used as door prizes to be given to those attending the meeting.

Mrs. Nielson has rare artistic ability. She was made director of the building and general decorating of the Hostess House for enlisted men on Treasure Island. She was hostess there during the war.

Many receptions for the members of the World Peace Conference were given on Treasure Island. Mrs. Nielson had charge of all the decorations for these important affairs.

As this meeting will be of interest to many besides members of the Carmel Woman's club, it will be open to the public for a fee of fifty cents. The proceeds will be added to the building fund of the club.

police, until the riot was quelled.

There are many facets to Mr. DeVault's interesting career, beginning with his twenty-one years, prior to entering the diplomatic field as international lawyer in close association with Thomas R. Marshall, eight years Vice President of the United States. Following his retirement from active diplomatic service, Mr. DeVault stepped into the radio news-analyst field on a program, "The Pulse of the War," heard for two years over Station WOW, Fort Wayne, and another year and a half on Pittsburg's KDKA, until October first of this year.

Settled now permanently in Carmel, Mr. DeVault is devoting his time to lecturing on post-war problems.

Musical Art Board Meets

Membership of the Musical Art Club of Monterey Peninsula has risen to approximately 150 members, it was revealed Monday night at the first board meeting of the year. Eben Whittlesey, club president, pointed out that more than 90 new members joined the group during the past year, and such interest provides added encouragement for the undertaking of their musical activities. Plans for the coming season were discussed and arrangements completed for the first concert of the season to be given Sunday at Carmel High School.

Attending the board meeting at the home of Mrs. Edith Anderson were Mrs. Grace Howden, Carl Bengberg, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lyon, Miss Elizabeth Crofton, Mrs. Emma Evans, Miss Angie Machado, Mrs. J. M. Klenke, Mrs. Edward Hopkins, Mrs. Carmalita Benson, Mrs. Robert Newby, Dr. and Mrs. John Pasmore, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Abernethy, Mr. and Mrs. Rew Manhire, Mr. and Mrs. Roudi Partidge, Miss Margaret Lea, and Miss Dorothy Symonds.

Ann Mills Engaged

Engagement of Ann Mills to Lieutenant Russell Leavenworth of Seattle was announced last week by her mother, Mrs. Vera Peck Mills, during a tea at her home. No date for the ceremony was announced. It will depend on the lieutenant's discharge from the army.

Miss Mills attended Sunset School here and graduated with the first class at Carmel high school. She attended Hanover College in Indiana for one year where the couple met, and then transferred to Swarthmore in Pennsylvania, graduating last February.

Lieutenant Leavenworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Leavenworth, Seattle, entered military service in January, 1942. He had served in the European theater and was en route to Japan when the war ended. He has since been at Camp Cook, and was recently transferred to the Seattle Port of Embarkation.

Gordon Ayres' Birthday

Mrs. Gordon D. Ayres gave a birthday party for her husband last Thursday night. Feature of the evening was the exhibiting of a portrait Kay Rodgers had done of Mrs. Ayres. Guests included Miss Rodgers, Corporal David Lion of the Fort Ord Little Theater, Sergeant Jerry Lakefish of Fort Ord, and Jose Manero, welcomed back after two months in San Francisco, where he played with the San Francisco Ballet Company in Blue Plaza.

Stuarts to Santa Barbara

Col. and Mrs. G. W. Stuart left Tuesday for Santa Barbara for several weeks' vacation and a visit with Major and Mrs. Robert Charlton. Mrs. Charlton and the children lived here on Camino Real while the Major was serving in the Pacific. This is the first sally away from home for the Stuarts since they settled five years ago at their Quiet Acre in Hatton Fields Mesa, which they consider something of a record for "old army", who have spent their entire life "shuttling from pillar to post."

Mrs. Vera Peck Millis, assisted by her daughters, Martha and Ann, was hostess on Wednesday at All Saints' Parish Hall to incoming and outgoing members of the executive board of the Woman's Auxilliary. Mrs. C. J. Hulsewe and Miss Helene Lehmann poured tea. Although it was raining, a happy and cheerful spirit was provided by the fireplace, and the table beautifully decorated with spring flowers and candles.

Mrs. B. B. Thomas, new president, talked to the group about activities for 1946, and members outlined plans for the Spring benefit to be held in the parish hall and church school annex on May 1 and 2, which will be a fashion show and tea, with models to represent the various periods of American life. Anyone with costumes to lend is asked to call Mrs. C. F. H. Jarvis at 1641-R or Mrs. D. M. Kerr at 1663-R.

Guests included Mrs. Bruce Bacon, Mrs. D. M. Kerr, Mrs. F. R. Hall, Mrs. C. F. H. Jarvis, Mrs. Whitney Palache, Mrs. L. O. Fisher, Mrs. E. H. Ewig, Mrs. William Dekker, Mrs. W. W. Wheeler, Mrs. E. M. Little, Mrs. R. E. Roberts, Mrs. B. B. Thomas, Mrs. Guy Jordan, Mrs. J. W. Dickenson, the Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Hulsewe, Miss Alice Cresson, Miss Sigrid Bohm, Miss Flora Stewart and Miss Helene Lehmann.

"Pop" Smith Returns

C. M. "Pop" Smith is back at his Seventh Street penthouse after two weeks of fun at Idyllwild, near Los Angeles, with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. (Louella) James Weir. He was disappointed by the lack of snow but found no lack of mountain scenes to capture with his camera. He had been promised snow every day of his visit, but it was not until the morning of his departure that snow and sleet, along with thunder and lightning, hit the area full blast. While in Southern California he also spent two days in Los Angeles with his daughter, Jerry, and her husband, Dr. Ludwig Kattan. He made the trip by plane.

Rev. Hulsewe Attends S. F. Meet

The Rev. C. J. Hulsewe, rector of All Saints' Church, attended a series of church meetings in San Francisco recently in his capacity as Dean of the Convocation of Monterey. All meetings were held at the Cathedral House and were presided over by the Right Rev. K. M. Block, D.D., bishop of the diocese. Included was a meeting of the diocesan committee on the reconstruction and advance fund. The Episcopal Church is seeking to raise $8,000,000 for reconstruction and advance work in the war-damaged areas. This effort will be made in February, and All Saints' members, as well as those of other churches on the Peninsula, will participate. The pastor also attended a meeting of the Commission on Church Extension and the Diocesan Council session.

Vardas Give Party

Several Carmel residents attended the Twelfth Night dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Jean Varda at their New Monterey home Sunday night. With coats of arms decking the walls, candle light added to the atmosphere of a long past age of royalty. More than 75 guests, attired in most unusual costumes, spent the evening dancing and singing.

Photographers from Life were on the scene to get snapshots of the royal figures including Jack Geisen as Nero, a Queen Elizabeth, Neptune, Henry the Eighth, Queen of the Night, and Hindu princes and princesses.

Major Helvenston Back

Major Harold F. Helvenston, on terminal leave, is now in Carmel with his wife, the former Elizabeth Pickering. They are at the home of Mrs. William Pickering, Mrs. Helvenston's mother, and so far post-war plans are incomplete. Mr. Helvenston was promoted to the rank of major in December while at Fort Lewis, where he designed, constructed, and installed a permanent engineer training museum. It included hundreds of models and visual training aids, showing the operation of the Allies in the various war theaters. Prior to that he had been in charge of the training of nearly a quarter-million men in combat camouflage at Camp Abbot, Oregon, and at Fort Lewis. Major Helvenston entered the army to help develop schemes and supervise construction of all camouflage on the West Coast.

All sorts of marvelous things from a complete set of poker chips in handsome lucite case, a fine leather desk set, a beautiful Mexican tin tray . . . separate plates and lovely glasses of all kinds to fill out sets and replace . . . broken sets of table linen of all kinds too . . . tall glass vases and pitchers . . . decorative baskets for all purposes, small ones and large ones, plain ones and gaily coloured ones . . . flower plaques to brighten your walls . . . grand bargains in leather work and in handbags . . . some very nice brass trays for table and for decoration. Then, when it comes to jewelry, The Corner Cupboard has all sorts of charming things to intrigue you! Charms, barrettes, pins and clips, bracelets, earrings, necklaces and a host of other things far too numerous to mention. But it's a wonderful chance to get some of those handsome and useful gifts that this shop contains, and new things will be added to the display from time to time . . . So drop in anytime as they are open seven days a week.

The sale starting at THE DISCOVERY SHOP this week-end is another magnificent opportunity to find really unusual and exotic things in the jewelry line as well as in their famous chairs, bars, cabinets, tables, pottery and other articles of glassware, furniture, etc. The jewelry is most interesting to me as this shop has the exclusive on the west coast in the Native Crafts line . . . this most individual and splendid batch of abstract, sur-realist and highly modern earrings, necklaces, brooches, combs, cuff-links and hair pins is actually selling at one-half the original price, and it's good news for those of us who have admired it so much. Of silver mostly, some set with semi-precious stones, others relying on line and skillful workmanship for beauty, the collection includes some stunning silver and copper collars as well. Also on sale are ceramic and shell jewelry . . . those cunning seed and shell necklaces and earrings and things . . . those adorable ceramic koala bears, sea horses, colts, fox, clever fish, flowers and birds.

A truly rare chance to procure some of that delicate, exquisite French Bisque is offered to the public by the sale at MERLE'S TREASURE CHEST. The Bisque figurine groups are of special interest to collectors and include The Fisherboys (formerly $195, now $150) and two other beautiful pieces (formerly $200, now $145). Then there is a porcelain Danish clock, a very fine piece which has been reduced from $195 to $165. Wedgewood lovers will be delighted to learn that a set of six demi-tasses, cups, saucers and coffee pot has been lowered in price from $95 to $65 . . . a really grand chance for demi-tasses connoisseurs. Merle's is giving 20% off on any item in the shop as well as a very special greater reduction on certain other items. Make these sales your project for the week, because you'd feel terrible if some wonderful objet d'art slipped through your fingers when it is being offered so reasonably at this time.

And the sale at THE COVERED WAGON has a lot of adorable ceramics and Hummel figures for your pleasure, as well as some of that pretty ruby glassware: red hen bon-bon dishes, big square ones with covers, and vases. Cigarette boxes and ashtray sets . . . boxes, ashtrays and bowls in that Burwood line . . . and many, many other things which Mrs. Tocher will have on her sale tables . . . some items in the antique line too at a 20% discount, and a variety of gifts at one-half and one-third discount.

FORTIER'S DRUG STORE (that fabulous shopping place where you can get everything except groceries and lingerie) has just received a new shipment of that super-fine Eaton Stationery, and from what I could see of their plentiful supply, now is the time to stock up! Eaton is famed for its Foreign Mail lightweight paper and envelopes as well as their smooth textured Randomweave, and the Calais Ripple has all the dignity and beauty of parchment . . . just about the best of its kind. Colours, while they last, are two shades of blue, of tan, of gray, cream and white.

Did you know that you can take your brass, copper, pewter, pottery, glass or any other kind of container into N B FLOWERS on Lincoln street and they will plant it with hardy plants in all manner of exotic shapes, sizes and colours. Variegated shades are interesting to work with, and your own personal tastes and house decoration can be incorporated readily into fascinating plant groupings . . . all sorts of roseate, coppery, red, pale greens, deep greens in shades that blend with your home. Whatever your taste in plants, N B Flowers will arrange beautiful displays, either large ones, or miniature ones for small tables and wall pockets . . . a unique and charming idea for gifts and for your family.

Ideal for golfers and for fishermen in their tussels with the elements, the popular windbreaker jacket at DEREK RAYNE Carmel Shop For Men should be a part of any man's wardrobe. These water proof, windproof comfortable jackets have a new addition this week with the arrival of one of Byrd Cloth, a tried and true result of Byrd's North Pole expedition. Is especially weather proof, has a gusset under the arm for extra freedom, and another in the back . . . a prime favorite among men of action. Others available are the poplin beige ones with drawstring waist, four pockets and zip front, and a reversible tackle twill.

Commander Stanley Here

Commander Ashton Stanley, USNR, former manager of the Del Monte Lodge, the Peninsula Country Club, and the Racquet Club, is in Carmel taking it easy, awaiting expiration of terminal leave next month. He and his wife, who lived in Carmel while he served in the Pacific war theater, have rented a cabin at the Mission Ranch. Plans are indefinite, but he is going to do everything possible to remain in this area, which he has known since he was five.

Commander Stanley entered service in 1942, going first to Quonset Point, R.I., and transferring in 1943 to the Naval Air Station at Santa Ana. On Christmas Eve that year he received overseas orders.

He was sent into heavy fighting on Bougainville to operate American airdromes. There for more than a year, he served as executive officer of his unit and was in charge of three bomber and fighter fields. Last spring he was shifted to the Admiralties and later to Luzon near Manila, his last overseas point before transferring to the U.S. Naval War College in Newport. He attained his present rank upon graduation from there last month.

Lows Entertain Rep. Outland

Rep. George E. Outland was the dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Low at their home Tuesday night, completing a non-political visit in the area. Representative Outland left for his home in Santa Barbara after the dinner, and on Monday he expects to return to Washington. He has been in California during the current congressional recess. Also a guest of the Lows was Fred Becholdt.

June Delight II, Back to School

June Delight II returned to Notre Dame Academy, Watsonville, Sunday after spending the holiday season with her family. Other guests during the Christmas season included Lloyd Sweetman, his wife and three sons. Mr. Sweetman was recreation director at Big Sur for many seasons and is now in Sacramento.

Enlisting before Pearl Harbor, Tarango saw action in almost all of the major Pacific battles. He was on the battleship Massachusetts when it was commissioned at Boston and served with it when it led the fighting at Casablanca. League of Women Voters Program of bills before the special session of the Legislature meeting in Sacramento was discussed yesterday by Mrs. Erich Thomsen, of the state board, for the Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters in All Saints' parish house. Mrs. Thomsen is chairman of the legislative committee of the California League, and was in Sacramento for the opening session and the three preceding days when Governor Earl Warren and the interim committees of the Legislature were working out details of the program.

The League is interested particularly in the measures for social welfare, such as child care centers, housing, public health. For the past several years the organization has studied intensively the needs in these fields and is supporting measures both on the state and on the national level which are designed to improve conditions which deteriorated greatly during the war. The meeting began at noon with a box lunch, as Mrs. Thomsen had to leave early in the afternoon for the bay area. Miss Lydia Weld, vice president, was in charge.

Riley-Hull Wedding

Hull will take place at St. Leo's Church in Oakland, Saturday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, followed by a reception at the College Woman's Club in Berkeley. Captain Hull has just returned from the European Theatre and will resume his position as principal of Sunset School on February 1. Though her home is in Oakland, Miss Riley, who has taught at Sunset School for ten years, has a wide circle of friends in Carmel, many of whom are planning on going to Oakland to attend the wedding.

Colonel Has Busy Christmas

Colonel Jonathan Rigdon found the atmosphere of Christmas this year hardly the same that his wife and children enjoyed back in Carmel. Eating holiday breakfast in Manila, he had lunch on Okinawa and supper in Tokyo. This was brought about by his recent transfer to Seoul, Korea, where he is now stationed at the Twenty-Ninth General Hospital. He had previously been at the Forty-Ninth General Hospital in Manila.

ation of the natural attractions of this area and the restraining of commercial interests in the residential districts, have already gone on record as favoring that the river mouth be acquired but kept as a primitive area. Mayor P. A. McCreery has stated that he also would support any group striving to retain the natural condition of the area and prevent the building of an artificial lake, park and amusement concessions.

The County Planning Commission has moved Carmel River Mouth Area to Number 2 on its acquisition schedule, but as yet has not announced whether or not it will recommend the area be improved after it is acquired. The Commission is made up of: Carmel Martin, Monterey, chairman; Charles Olmstead, Monterey; Don Colegrove, Pajaro; G. S. Dedini, King City; George Dudley, San Ardo, and O. C. Connely, Alisal District. Ex-officio members: Walter Tavernetti, County Assessor, Salinas; H. S. Cousins, County Surveyor; Rudy LaMar, County Supervisor.
